D. APPLETON & COMPANY, Publishers, New York

There have been many excellent stories of love and intrigue, but no one of them all equals in depth of fascination and subtle plot and counterplot The Grey Cloak.

—New York American.

Since Stevenson began the revival of the modern romance with Prince Otto, and Anthony Hope gave it a greater impetus with The Prisoner of Zenda, we have had few stories of this kind that can compare with Harold MacGrath's new book, The Grey Cloak. It is even ahead of The Puppet Crown in every respect, and is the best romance we have had in years.

—New York Press.

When Harold MacGrath wrote The Grey Cloak his intention was to write a book which the reader could not lay down till he finished. In a busy age this is an offense against industry and Mr. MacGrath is certainly found guilty of it.—Chicago Tribune.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY, Publishers

Meredith Nicholson has added much to the literary reputation given his state by Wallace, Riley and Thompson.

—New York Press.

An unusually well-written story of the West, remarkable for its lucid, pure English, elegance of style and thoroughness of treatment. The interest is immediately aroused, and, as the story progresses, is quickened to the point of absorption. The character studies are true to life; in fact, are drawn from life with a vividness and faithfulness that is difficult to overestimate.

NOTES IN SEASON.

H. M. CALDWELL COMPANY have in preparation a work entitled "Health, Strength and Power," by Dr. Dudley Allen Sargent, director of the Hemenway Gymnasium at Harvard University, whose many inventions and writings on physical training are widely known. The work will be illustrated from original photographs. They also call attention to an exquisite edition of Dante Gabriel Rossetti's "The House of Life," with initial letters and border design by Marion L. Peabody and original photogravure frontispiece by Marcel.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish at once the pamphlet entitled "My Relations with Carlyle," that was written for private circulation by James Anthony Froude after he published his memorials of Carlyle. It is now republished by Froude's executors as a reply to Sir James Crichton-Browne's introduction to the "New Letters and Memorials of Jane Welsh Carlyle," recently brought out by John Lane. With Mr. Froude's own statement will be given a letter from the late Sir James Stephen, that was also printed for private circulation in 1886.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready a work entitled "The Anglo-Saxon Century," by John R. Dos Passos, who advocates the union of all English-speaking people, towards which end he urges the incorporation of Canada with the United States; "Buddhist India," by T. W. Rhys-Davids, a new volume in the Story of the Nations Series; also, "German Ambitions as They Affect Britain and the United States of America," by "Vigilans sed Æquus," reprinted, with additions and notes, from the London Spectator, with an introduction by J. St. Loe Strachey, which form a new volume in the Questions of the Day Series.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just brought out in their series of Twentieth Century Text-Books "A History of Roman Literature," by Harold N. Fowler, professor in the College for Women of Western Reserve University. The book is intended primarily for use as a text-book in schools and colleges. They will publish next week in the Literatures of the World Series Professor William B. Trent's long-promised "History of American Literature;" "Twixt God and Mammon," with a memoir by Hall Caine of its author, the late William Edwards Tirebuck; "The Unwelcome Mrs. Hatch," an expansion by Mrs. Burton Harrison of her play of that title, to make one of the Novelettes de Luxe series; "Sir William Johnson," the fourth volume in the Historic Lives series, by Augustus C. Emell; also, "Love Letters of Margaret Fuller, 1845-1846," with an introduction by Julia Ward Howe.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready a collection of letters written by John Ruskin to Mary and Helen Gladstone, daughters of the statesman. The letters have never been published before with the exception of a privately printed edition recently circulated in England, where it created great interest. It will be recalled by those who followed Ruskin's career that he became intimately acquainted with the Gladstone family and spent much time with them at Hawarden. The letters were written in the intervals between Ruskin's sojourns there, and present an intimate and domestic view of the relations existing between the illustrious friends. The letters are prefaced by an introduction by the Right Hon. G. Wyndham, and by extracts from certain entertaining diaries kept by observers of the friendship between Ruskin and Gladstone. They have also just ready "The Dowager Countess and the American Girl," by Lilian Bell, a novel which deals with the strained domestic situations that may follow the marriages of American girls with men of title abroad; also, "Rejected of Men," by Howard Pyle, a story written around a theme of deep religious significance.

Cornaro was a Venetian born in 1464, who lived to a few years over one hundred. At forty he was believed by his physicians to be in a condition of hopeless invalidism; out of this he came by his own efforts, and lived to a great old age of perfect health. The three essays comprised in this work were written by him at the age of eighty-six, at ninety-one and at ninety-five. "Temperance in all things" is the text of each. To eat little, to drink no intoxicating liquors, exercise and cold water bathing, are his chief remedies against old age and disease. Several fine portraits adorn the work.

"In the following work a first attempt has been made to describe ancient India, during the period of Buddhist ascendancy, from the points of view, not so much of the brahmin, as of the rajput. The two points of view naturally differ very much. Priest and noble in India have always worked very well together so long as the question at issue did not touch their own rival claims as against one another. When it did—and it did so especially during the period referred to—the harmony, as will be evident from the following pages, was not so great."—Preface.

Mr. Dos Passos advocates the union of all English-speaking people. He believes, he says in his introduction, that the only real obstacle to a possible entente between the Anglo-Saxon race may rise from the situation in Canada, and he urges that she incorporate herself with the American Republic. In order to prevent an armed conflict, possible in the event of any differences arising between the allied race, he suggests the establishment of an International Supreme Court, with "full jurisdiction to finally determine all disputes which may hereafter arise between us."

- The Latin text of the Tractatus de Purgatorio Sancti Patricii contained in the Harleian manuscript 3846 is printed for the first time, accompanied in parallel columns by the old French metrical translation of Marie de France, made at the end of the twelfth century. The precise version used by Marie de France has not been found. The Harleian manuscript represents this version more completely and better than any manuscript yet made accessible. The French text has been improved materially by the comparison made with the Latin original. The text of the Tractatus from another British Museum manuscript (Royal 13 B. viii) is printed in full as an appendix.

 A severe arraignment of church and society. The author's first novel. Dr. Lorimer is pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist Church and formerly of the famous Tremont Temple, of Boston. The plot turns upon the story of a young Scotchman, made a scapegoat by his rascally nephew, and driven from his home to Australia. His named changed, Australia yields him an immense fortune. He returns to England, rehabilitates himself as a man of honor, is beset by enemies, finally dies strangely, back in the Australia wilds. In the fashionable English West End, among the clergy of the rich, in convents, in the bypaths and reeking alleys of London's East End, the story moves.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JUNE 20, 1903.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE BOOKSELLER AND HIS CRITICS.

WHEN deploring the anæmic condition of the booktrade in this country the grumbler is very apt to point either to the fatherland or to the motherland as models of the standard which he would have the American bookseller reach. Most of this talk, we are inclined to think, is based on hearsay, or on the recollections of years ago; for now, strangely enough, if the numerous communications to the Börsenblatt des deutschen Buchhandels are to be taken as authority, and we know no reason why they should not be accepted as authority, the grumbler in the fatherland is no better satisfied with the efficiency of the present-day bookseller, or rather his assistant, than is his American sympathizer with the efficiency of the same class here.

Nor do they "order this matter better in France."

And now we learn through a prospectus of "The Bookshops, Limited," recently circulated in London, that the "ordinary English bookseller does not make it his business to know anything about his wares," and that for this reason so few good book shops exist out of London and two or three provincial towns. "The Bookshops, Limited," whose manager is so plausible, and so big with promises, as almost to lead one to suspect that "The Bookshops, Limited," is only another name for "The Booklovers' Library," and its ancillaries, therefore proposes "to start a crusade" and bring relief to the thousands who are now unable to procure books because of the "uninterested attitude of the ordinary bookseller." As soon as enough subscribers can be secured the corporation will "open a few pioneer shops under the management of men who really do know something about books." Indeed, "it is intended that each shop shall be made a literary centre for its district." These "Bookshops, Limited," are to supplant those antiquated bookshops, those derelicts on the highways of commerce, so to say, whose proprietors and managers "have little real knowledge of their business; who rely for their choice of books almost entirely on the advice of publishers' travellers, who frequently fail to keep accounts, conduct their business with almost complete ignorance of the tastes and needs of their customers, and are usually unaware of the new books issued or about to be issued."

We little wonder that the London Publishers' Circular waxes wroth over this libel, and that in calling attention to it denounces it as "a puerile, not to say imbecile production." Incidentally, it administers a deserved rebuke to the authors, who, while reviling the present-day bookseller, rather foolishly hail the promoter of "The Bookshops, Limited," as the long-awaited savior of the author and reading public. We agree with our contemporary that at least one of these should "have felt some small measure of compunction in writing as he does about the booksellers, considering the splendid way in which his books have been put before the public by them both at home," and, we might add, in the United States also.

In discussing this "Bookshops, Limited," scheme, several critics of the English bookseller dwelt with more or less emphasis on the advantages of the German "on sale" system. From time to time we have also heard similar laudatory comments on the system in this country; yet this method of helping the sale of books has never found much favor nor has it proved satisfactory when introduced into England or into this country. Mr. William Heinemann, a strong advocate of the "on sale" system in England, we learn from The Publishers' Circular, has been disappointed with his experiments in this direction, and has dropped his offer to send a copy of any of his books to the public for inspection. The attempt to make a bookstore of every post-office in the United States seems to have met with a similar fate. Even in the home of its birth—in Germany—the "on sale or return" system is falling into desue-tude, and German publishers are encouraging more and more the outright purchase of stock, and also cash payments. In theory, the "on sale" system is admirable; in practice for some reason it does not seem to work out successfully.

As to the oft-repeated charge that the bookseller cannot or deliberately will not supply the public with the books it wants, we join our contemporary in saying that this accusation is "as untrue as it is absurd. It is only less absurd than to suppose that a bookseller should be expected to keep in stock every one of the many thousands of new books published every year, or that he and his assistants should always be able to immediately supply information about every book on every subject to any stranger who walks into the shop." There are no doubt some booksellers, as there are other merchants, who through ignorance or laziness neglect their business; but these are rare exceptions, and it would be manifestly unfair, in any case, to judge the capacity of the many by the shortcomings of the few.

We note as a cheering sidelight on the discussion of the value of the services of the bookseller in creating a demand for books, the result of an experiment recently made by D. Appleton & Co. to discover what induces people to buy books. With the first edition of Chauncey C. Hotchkiss's novel, "For a Maiden Brave," they sent out postal cards asking ten questions, to which purchasers were requested to make replies. About five hundred responded, with this result:

	Replies.	Per cent.
Was it because you saw it advertised?....	59	12
Was it because you saw it reviewed?.....	49	10
Was it because a friend recommended it? ..	69	14
Was it because the bookseller recommended it?.....	126	26
Was it because you had read the author's previous works?.....	76	16
Was it because you were attracted by the binding?.....	2	—
Was it because you were attracted by the title?.....	25	5
Was it because you were attracted by the colored illustrations?.....	12	3
Was it because you were attracted by its general appearance?.....	36	9
Was it for some reason not here stated? ..	24	5

It seems to us that the bookseller need not be ashamed of this showing. To have accomplished over a quarter as much as all the other factors combined, (including advertising and reviews,) in disposing of this one book, is not a mean performance, when the competition of the circulating and other libraries in the field of fiction is taken into consideration.

BOOKSELLERS AND BOOKSELLING IN ENGLAND IN THE 18TH AND 19TH CENTURIES.

JOSEPH SHAYLOR, of the firm of Simpkin, Marshall & Co., from whose excellent contributions on the subject of bookselling we have occasionally quoted in our columns, some time ago printed in the Nineteenth Century a paper on "Booksellers and Bookselling," in which he describes the old booksellers like Thomas Guy, the founder of the famous Guy's Hospital in London; Richardson, the novelist; William Taylor, the original publisher of "Robinson Crusoe;" Edward Cave, the founder of the Gentleman's Magazine, and others of like prominence in the annals of the booktrade. On one of the methods of publishing—"share book" publishing—Mr. Shaylor throws the following light: "Share book" publishing consisted in the division of the expense of publishing a book among a number of booksellers, who were styled partners. These met from time to time to decide upon a new book or a new edition, the number to be printed, and to divide profits. This custom led to the partition into numerous shares of works which were selling freely, a single book sometimes being divided into 100, 150, and even 200 lots. We have evidence of this practice in a catalogue of an auction sale of copyright works that took place in 1805, when the undermentioned portions of books were sold. As will be seen, these portions varied from a 16th to a 160th of a book. The catalogue contained nearly 1000 entries, from which the following have been selected at random:

One 64th Ainsworth's "National Dictionary".....	£	s.	d.
One 24th Lord Bolingbroke's Works.....		6	8
One 48th Buchan's "Domestic Medicine".....		2	0
One 54th Buffon's "Quadrupeds," 9 vols.....		40	0
One 25th Fielding's "Tom Jones".....		8	0
One 16th Gregory's "Father's Legacy".....		3	0
One 160th Dr. Johnson's "Dictionary," 8vo.....		5	0
One 100th Dr. Johnson's "Dictionary," 4to.....		17	15
One 160th Dr. Johnson's "Lives of Poets".....		11	0

"At the sale of Mrs. Mary Richardson's stock and copyrights in 1766 the following prices were realized:

	£	s.	Whole.
One 40th Johnson's "Dictionary," 2 vols., 8vo.....	27	0	1,080
One 36th Milton's "Paradise Lost".....	25	0	900
One 64th Pope's "Iliad and Odyssey".....	17	0	1,080
One 24th "Clarissa".....	25	0	600
One 16th "Pamela".....	18	0	288
One 24th "Grandison".....	20	0	480
One 32nd Hervey's "Meditations".....	32	0	1,024
One 16th "Percegrine Pickle".....	12	0	192
One 16th "Roderick Random".....	13	13	218
One 32nd "Rambler".....	21	0	672
One 80th "Tatler".....	5	5	420

"The Tonsons appear to have been the owners of the whole of many valuable copyrights, but at the sale these were divided into fractions to suit purchasers. Thus Addison's 'Miscellanies and Travels' was offered in twentieths, and fetched on the average £14 per share. Other notable lots were as follows:

	£ s.	Whole.	£ s.
One 8th Congreve's Works.....	25 0	200 0
One 20th Croxall's "Æsop".....	15 0	300 0
One 8th Dryden's "Fables".....	6 6	50 8
One 12th Dryden's "Plays".....	8 10	102 0
One 10th Gay's "Fables".....	21 10	215 0
One 40th Glass's "Cookery".....	16 10	660 0
One 20th Milton's "Paradise Lost".....	46 0	920 0
One 20th Milton's "Paradise Regained".....	13 10	270 0
One 8th Spenser's "Faerie Queen".....	9 15	76 0

"At the final meeting a few years since of the remaining partners in the quarto edition of 'Cruden's Concordance' there were left about fifteen only of the original shareholders, the majority having disposed of their interest in the work by the sale or resale of the original shares or portion of shares. The work thus became vested in a few publishers, and the difficulty in appropriating this property among the remaining partners will be seen by the following selection from the list of shares and fraction of shares:

3	21½	1	7	338½
52	200	18	60	1000

"Trade Sales' are also described, and in connection with the discount question reference is made to the Booksellers' Association formed in 1852. Mr. Shaylor acknowledges that the effect of excessive discounts has been disastrous, but hopes that 'a bookseller's shop, solely for the sale of books, will exist in every town in England.' 'It is generally recognized,' he remarks, 'that primarily two classes are interested in books—the author, who has a brain teeming with knowledge and ideas; and the reading public, who are anxious to obtain the product of this knowledge. Who shall in the future be the medium connecting these two interests remains to be seen. Whether the publisher will become again a bookseller, to distribute to the public the works he produces, or will use other means than the bookseller to reach the public, is at present a problem. Whether or no the booksellers by some organization can work in harmony both among themselves and with the publishers, with or without the aid of any coercive system, it is difficult to say. It seems, however, quite impossible, with the daily increasing output of books and the numerous additions made during recent years to the list of publishers, that any organization can displace the intelligent bookseller.' Mr. Shaylor, who takes an optimistic view of the future, insists that the welfare of the bookseller depends upon himself, a statement that every one with a knowledge of the trade will frankly corroborate.

POSTAL MATTERS.

APPLICATION FOR AN INJUNCTION DENIED TO STREET & SMITH.

THE application of Street & Smith for an injunction restraining the Postmaster-General from excluding their serials from second-class postal privileges was refused on June 17. It was generally taken for granted that the application would not be denied; but the decision of the District Court of Appeals sustaining the position of the Postmaster-General in excluding certain serial publications from the second-class postal privilege was farther reaching than was first supposed.

In the decision of the Court of Appeals in the case of the Bates & Guild Company, of Boston, Justice Shepard said: "The facts in this particular case illustrate the danger of granting relief by way of mandatory injunction."

Acting on this principle, the Washington correspondent of the New York Evening Post says "it is understood that the Justices of the District Supreme Court have concluded not to issue any more restraining orders in advance of the hearing of a case. This policy has had its first exemplification in the case of Street & Smith."

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

JOHN KENDRICK BANGS has resigned as editor of the Metropolitan Magazine and has been succeeded by Perriton Maxwell.

THE COUNTESS OF WALDERSEE, who was Miss Mary Esther Lee, of New York, has written at the request of the editor of Harper's Bazar an autobiographical article which appears in the July number. The Countess relates anecdotes of Bismarck, Von Moltke, and various royal personages, and gives her opinion upon the subject of marriages between American girls and foreign noblemen.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO PRESS has just issued the first number of Modern Philology, a new quarterly devoted to research in modern languages and literatures, edited by three professors of the University of Chicago. The first issue contains seventeen articles by men well known in the field of modern language work. Contribution for future numbers have been promised by a large list of authorities on the subject.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY, Boston, has just published a bibliography of the small periodicals variously called chap-books, fadazines, freak magazines, etc., compiled by Frederick Winthrop Faxon, and entitled "Ephemeral Bibelots, a bibliography of the modern chap-books and their imitators." Mr. Faxon traces the probable origin of these periodicals to the Chap-Book, first published by Stone & Kimball, May 15, 1894, and records the titles of 238 of its imitators, some of which are still alive. (Bulletin of Bibliography Pamphlets, No. 11, 26 p. 16", pap., 25 c.)

BUSINESS NOTES.

BEMIDJA, MICH.—O'Brien & Hurley have succeeded S. Jankoski, bookseller.

BOSTON, MASS.—Henry A. Dickerman & Son have removed to 157 Summer Street, where they have quarters in the new Boardman Building, convenient to the South Station.

MADISON, WIS.—J. L. Pickarts & Co., booksellers, are selling out.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—George M. Des Forges & Co. have opened a new book and stationery store at 412 Broadway, to be known as the New Book Store. It is furnished in the style of the colonial period, both as to fittings and decorations. The store was formally opened on June 5. Mr. Des Forges will aim to put current fiction on sale the day of publication. He will also carry a limited line of French novels in the original, first editions of English books in fine bindings, and Oriental books.

NEW YORK CITY.—The creditors of Lewis, Scribner & Co. are requested to meet at the office of F. K. Pendleton, No. 25 Broad Street, on the morning of June 26.

READING, PA.—Roland's Book, News and Stationery Store, C. F. Kessler proprietor, has bought from the trustee in bankruptcy the stock, furniture, fixtures and good will of Roland's Bookstore, of which Walter G. Roland was proprietor, and which has been located at 625 Penn Street since 1880. Mr. C. F. Kessler has retained the former proprietor as manager, and wishes the trade to put his new firm on their mailing lists.

SARGENT, NEB.—Hicks & Hicks have succeeded Hicks & Tobias, booksellers.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.—H. A. Moos has removed to 334 East Houston Street, a block further down the street. He writes that "the new store is situated in the Maverick Hotel Building, and contains nearly double the space of the one lately occupied, without counting the large dry basement underneath it. In the centre there is a small court, in which there is a fine grove of banana trees, and this makes it, perhaps, the lightest and coolest store in the city. Here I have established a free reading room—an innovation for San Antonio—and cordially invite you and other bookmen to come in and rest when you visit our beautiful city."

TALMADGE, NEB.—N. C. McKibben has succeeded to the book business of George W. Gilman.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY will publish early in July a work entitled "The Crises of the Christ," by the Rev. G. Campbell Morgan.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. publish this week the third volume of the Centenary edition of Emerson's works, containing his "Essays—second series."

ROBERT C. MALLETT and William H. Jackson, of Waterbury, Conn., have just brought out a handbook of precepts for printers, entitled "Starting a Printing Office."

T. J. CAREY & Co., New York, are about to issue "The Pun Book," which has been in preparation for some time. This book is said to contain a very complete collection of modern puns from many places, and will be issued in dainty leatherette cover at a popular price.

H. ELLIS FOSTER, 52 Winder Street, Detroit, Mich., has written and published a book entitled "How to Read the Human Head and Face." The book is fully illustrated, and contains also a chart for marking the different grades of temperaments and phrenological developments.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY, Akron, O., have in preparation what promises to be a pleasing color book for children in Margaret M. Page's "In Childhood Land." This will be a large quarto, with illustrations by Katherine H. Greenland, who has the gift of picturing the wee men and women in characteristic attitudes.

THE NEW AMSTERDAM BOOK COMPANY has secured the American rights to the Duke of Bedford's Woburn Library of Natural History, the first volume of which, "Wild Fruits of the Country Side," by F. Edward Holmes, will be brought out in the autumn. The work will contain a number of illustrations drawn and painted by the author.

B. H. HENDERSON, 1509 Oxford Street, Berkeley, California, has brought out "The Elise Harmony Chart," by means of which any one at all familiar with music may acquaint himself with the chords of the major and minor keys. By a simple arrangement the chart shows, for instance, the key of C major and on the reverse side the corresponding minor. The chart will be found useful in transposing.

J. HOWARD RHOADES has succeeded his father, John W. Rhoades, as manager of the New York News Company. Mr. Rhoades senior is now connected with the American News Company. The new manager of the New York News Company is a graduate of Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute of the class of '08, and has been connected with the news company for nearly five years, rising from one position to another.

D. APPLETON & Co. have secured the American rights in "The Life and Letters of Lord Coleridge," edited by Ernest Hartley Coleridge, nephew of Lord Coleridge and editor of the new Murray Byron. The book will contain much interesting correspondence with distinguished Americans, such as James Russell Lowell, Richard H. Dana, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Robert Lincoln, William M. Evarts, John Bigelow and Henry James.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co announce a work on "The Adjustment of Wages—a study in the coal and iron industries of Great Britain and America," by W. J. Ashley, now a Professor of Commerce at Birmingham University, lately a professor at Harvard; also, "Ledger and Sword, or, The Honorable Company of Merchants of England Trading to the East Indies, 1599-1874," by Beckles Willson, author of "The New America."

HENRY HOLT & Co. have just published a handy little text book entitled "Essentials of German," by Professor B. J. Vos, of Johns Hopkins University, which presents in a comparatively small compass an outline of the main facts of German grammar. They have also just ready Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice," edited for school use by Professor Thomas Marc Parrott, of Princeton, who has supplied much critical matter and a glossary.

THE PRESBYTERIAN BOARD OF PUBLICATION have just brought out a work entitled "The Laos of North Siam," by Mrs. Lillian Johnson Curtis, an interesting description of a little-known country and its people, with an introduction by Robert E. Speer and illustrations from photographs taken by the author; "A Short History of American Presbyterianism from its Foundations to the Reunion of 1869;" "Teachings of the Lord Jesus," by Professor W. S. Bean, with an introduction by Professor C. R. Hemphill; also, a brief manual entitled "Shall I Unite with the Church," by the Rev. William Bryant.

HOLDEN & Co., 19 North Eighth Street, St. Louis, Mo., have in press a "Life of Robert Quincy Beer," by Lee Sterns Holden. Mr. Beer may be remembered as one of the firm of Wilson, Hinkle & Co., who died in 1870, when but a little over forty-one years of age. He was a famous wit and intimately acquainted with all the great humorists of his day. The book announced by Holden & Co. will contain besides the sayings and doings of Mr. Beer, repeated by the author after a lapse of a third of a century, sketches of the lives of many distinguished educators, poets, literary personages, prominent bookmen, publishers, and the wits, wags and humorists of that day down to the present period.

HOWARD WILFORD BELL, 239 Fifth Avenue, New York, will instal his Unit Library on July 1 with the publication of "The Marble Faun," by Hawthorne. Mr. Bell's scheme, which has already been fully described by us, consists briefly in fixing the price of each book on its number of pages based on a unit of 25 pages. The price of each set of 25 pages is one cent. The price of 100 pages is 4 cents and each additional unit of 25 pages adds one cent to the price. Thus 250 pages costs 10 cents and 400 pages 16 cents. The books will be bound in three styles, namely, in stiff paper which is given with the printed pages; in cloth which costs 30 cents additional; and in full leather which costs 50 cents additional. Twelve volumes will be published each year.

DODD, MEAD & Co. have published the 10th volume of "The New International Encyclopedia," which covers the alphabet from "Infantry" to "Larramendi," filling nearly a thousand double column octavo pages. Among the geographical subjects treated fully and accompanied by maps and other illustrations are Iowa, Ireland, Italy, Japan, Jerusalem, Kansas and Kansas City, Kentucky and Korea. Two and one-half pages are devoted to the "Inquisition," six pages to "Insanity," five to "Inscriptions," ten pages to "Insects," to which is added a handsome colored plate. Iron and steel is very fully treated and illustrated, so are irrigation, Italian literature and language, the Jameses, royal and otherwise; Jesus, the Jews, the Johns, sacred and profane; judgment, jurisprudence, kindergarten, laboratory and lace. There are three full-page colored plates and thirty engravings, together with a number of small illustrations in the text. The information, in every direction, appears to be as full as the importance of the subject requires. From our own personal knowledge we know that the editors spare no pains in verifying facts and dates in order that the material may be as correct as it is humanly possible to make it.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line, for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplaced, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

A Key to Books in Print

In the 1902 PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL

Index Volume

the books of the 246 publishers who contributed the lists bound up in alphabetical order in the Catalogues volume, are indexed, by author, title and subject catchword, furnishing, by means of 140,000 entries, ready reference to the books of the leading publishers in print on July 1, 1902, and to forthcoming books of which they could furnish information in August. The Index volume and the Catalogues volume of

will be found the most useful, as well as the least expensive, single book trade reference work yet issued, especially for the booksellers and small libraries who cannot afford to buy many trade tools. Price, $2 for the Catalogues volume and $5 for the Index volume, separate, or $7 together, absolutely net.

The Catalogues volume is a huge octavo, probably the largest volume now issued, reaching, with 1902, 5700 pages, being $8\frac{3}{4}$ inches in thickness and weighing 20 pounds. Directions for enclosure delivery in New York should accompany the order, unless shipment is to be by express at the charge of the subscriber.

The Index volume, an octavo of 1114 pages, will be sent on approval to any bookseller or library enclosing 10 cents for partial postage. Of the Catalogues volume less than 300 remain unsubscribed, and the edition of the Index volume is also limited. Address, PUBLISHERS are gradually realizing the importance of two vital facts, especially when contemplating having large editions bound.

FIRST—To have their books bound in the best possible manner.

SECOND—To save enough money thereon as will guarantee an enormous annual extra dividend.

You are certainly not averse to making money. Ask me to submit samples and estimates. You will then follow the lead of some of the best publishing houses who find it profitable to give me their work.

The Annual American Catalogue

CUMULATED

1900-1902

THE ANNUAL AMERICAN CATALOGUE, Cumulated, 1900-1902, includes in one alphabet the short-title lists of the books of 1900, 1901 and 1902, giving information of the books recorded by author, title, subject and series. This cumulation, which is to continue annually until a five-yearly volume of "The American Catalogue" in its new shape is reached, has been generally accepted as a desirable, practical working tool for the trade, supplementing as it will do, from year to year, the last issue of the five-yearly "American Catalogue," without the need of consulting several alphabets in several volumes.

ENGLISH REFERENCE CATALOGUE

The Reference Catalogue of Current English Literature, better known as "Whitaker's Reference List," is the English work corresponding to the American "Publishers' Trade List Annual." It contains the lists of 179 of the most important English publishers and is prefixed by an index containing 135,000 references to the books catalogued. It is thus invaluable in libraries and book-stores as the most convenient and complete key to current English books. The present issue is in two volumes, of about 5000 pages, strongly bound in half leather at the price of $5.00 net. The edition is limited, and few copies remain unsold. American orders should be sent to the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, 298 Broadway, New York.

"HERE is a book worth anyone's while. Do you want thrilling adventure? Read about the rescue of the Duncrieff's crew from the ice off Cape Gaspe. Do you ask for sport? Peruse the description of the boat races at Caribou. Would you become acquainted with real men? Follow the deeds and talk of David Wilson, Donald Macdonald, Hans and a host of others. And, finally, do you want to know a real girl and learn how love came to her? Read the descriptions of Gertrude MacMichael and follow her to the climax.

"Now, all this may appear extravagant praise, but it is as soberly as a reviewer can write after completing the finest, liveliest, most stirring story that he has read this year. That's sober truth, too. . . .

"It is a book to be read once, then again, then two or three times more, and then laid within easy reach to be dived into when your brain wants refreshing and your blood stirring."—Nashville American.

"For once in the great mess of fiction that has been served up to us we come upon an original idea and a new condiment. In 'The Sacrifice of the Shannon,' Mr. W. Albert Hickman introduces us to the ice fields of the Gulf of St. Lawrence in winter. . . . He gives us a rattling yacht race, a charming heroine, four or five real live men and a rescue from the ice that carries us along breathlessly. . . . There is an outdoor breeze blowing through the whole story, a breath of the great gulf it describes. . . . Mr. Hickman has written a notable story that will be thoroughly enjoyed by all who read it."—New York Sun.
